Salt Lake City To Cheyenne, Wyo.

(BULLETIN)
(International News Service)

SALT LAKE CITY, Utah, Feb. 24.—Leading the search for the giant United Air Line passenger plane, missing in the desolate, storm-swept Wyoming-Utah border country with eight persons aboard, two veterans of mountain flying took off in the face of perilous weather conditions from here today.

They were H. A. Collison, who in ten years of mountain flying has learned every park and valley along the route, and Jack O'Brien, another seasoned veteran. Collision left at 7:15 a. m. (MST) and O'Brien shortly afterward.

Search Delayed.
Search for the missing plane, believed forced down in the forbidding border country, was delayed for hours as strong winds, dense fog and swirling snow threatened disaster to rescue planes.

Collison and O'Brien got under way, however, as the hours passed with no word of the missing plane, which left Salt Lake City yesterday afternoon. Fear for the lives of the liner's passengers grew hourly. Those aboard the plane included one woman, Mary Carter of Salt Lake City, the stewardess.

Collison was accompanied by Frank Whitenberg and O'Brien by Ed Yravyich, a department of commerce inspector.

Deny Mrs. Massie Attempts Suicide

(International News Service)

RENO, Nev. Feb. 24.—Mrs. Thalia Massie, central figure in the sensational Honolulu "honoring slaying" case two years ago, today began a new page in her life's book in a Reno hospital, where physicians denied she had attempted to commit suicide by swallowing poison at a night club.

Mrs. Massie the past six weeks had looked forward to the granting of a divorce yesterday from Lieutenant Thomas H. Massie, U. S. N., as the "turning over of a new page in her life. My former life's book is closed and sealed."

Attends Party
Last night with a party of friends she followed the time honored Reno custom of celebrating the end of the "tie that binds" by attending a party at an inn.

As gayety was at its height Mrs. Massie was stricken. She had been nervous and suddenly turned pale.

Her attorney, George Springmeyer, noticing her condition, called Dr. Vinton A. Muller, who denied emphatically that Mrs. Massie's sudden illness was the result of an attempt to end her life, and said she was suffering from a "nervous disorder" brought about by her appearance at the divorce proceedings.

Chief of Police James Kirkley declared he had investigated the case and found no evidence of attempted suicide.

"There was absolutely no evidence of poison," he declared.

Despite Loss Of Five Pilots, Army Flyers Push Mail Service

(International News Service)

NEW YORK, Feb. 24.—With five pilots dead, three injured and six planes wrecked, the army air service today doggedly went ahead with its task of transporting the nation's air mail. Officers of the air corps at Floyd Bennett Field here characterized the mishaps as "part of the game."

The latest victim of the wave of misfortune which seemingly had trailed the army flyers since they took over the air mail is Lieut. George F. McDermott, Pittsburgh.

"Lost At Sea"
McDermott was officially reported "as lost at sea" today after an ill-fated attempt to find him in the waters of the Atlantic Ocean off Rockaway Beach, where the amphibian in which he and two other army pilots were enroute to Richmond, Va., foundered after making a forced landing.

McDermott's companions, Lieut. James H. Rothrock and Lieut. William S. Pocock, were rescued from the wreckage of the amphibian by the navy destroyer Bernadou. The two men had been clinging to the wreckage for more than five hours before their rescue could be effected and both suffered severely from exposure.

Commander E. W. Wunch of the Bernadou said the two rescued air men had told him Lieut. McDermott had been washed overboard scarcely ten minutes before the destroyer arrived on the scene.

Sleds Seized On Sheridan Ave.

Police Act To Break Up
Practice Of Hitching
Onto Autos

Police last night confiscated temporarily nine sleds belonging to boys whom they alleged had attached the sled to automobiles at the corner of Sheridan avenue and Albert street.

After the parents and the lads had appeared before Mayor Charles Mayne and Chief of Police Haven today the sleds were returned.

The mayor and chief of police pointed out that they want the boys to have a good time but they do want them to sled ride where there will not be any chance of injury.

The officials told the parents they should exercise more supervision over their sons and strongly condemned the practice of boys attaching their sleds to automobiles.

In fact the mayor and chief of police said that in the future when someone is caught attaching a sled to an auto the sled would be confiscated until the boys sing spring-time melodies.

After complaints had been received last night Lieutenant Criswell and Patrolman Richards went to the intersection and took charge of the sleds.

READY TO SENTENCE CONVICTED TOUGH GANG

Ninety-Nine Year Term Is Decree

Plans Being Made To Rush Trial Of 'The Owl', Banghart

BRITISH SEEK TO EXTRADITE FACTOR

CHICAGO, Feb. 24.—Formal sentence was to be passed today on Roger Touhy, notorious gang leader, and his two henchmen found guilty by a jury of the ransom kidnapping of John "Jake the Barber" Factor and ordered imprisoned for 99 years. Judge Michael Feinberg indicated he would deny the defense motion of Attorney William Scott Stewart for a new trial. Stewart said he would base his plea on the state supreme court ruling handling the method of choosing grand juries in Cook county illegal.

To Try Banghart
Prosecutor Wilbert Crowley, who directed the successful prosecution of Touhy, Gus Schaefer and Albert Kator, today announced that he would request an early trial for Basil "The Owl" Banghart, Banghart is held on indictment charging participation in the $70,000 ransom abduction of Factor.

The British government plans to request the extradition of Factor on Monday to stand trial abroad on charges of participating in an alleged stock swindle.

JURY'S VERDICT FREES SOLES ON MURDER CHARGE

home from visiting the home of a friend, Mrs. Rose Hardy, Police, at that time, however, decided upon a suicide verdict.
Insisting his daughter never took her own life, Thomas Lynch started an investigation. When he laid evidence by the district attorney, Soles was arrested and later indicted on the murder charge.

Silence fell over the courtroom, crowded to capacity, as jury foreman Miss Rose McCloskey said: "We find the defendant not guilty."

A smile swept across the face of the defendant, Ivy Johnson, negro maid in the Soles home, scene of the shooting, shrieked when murmurs of approval rumbled through the spectators.

After six ballots were taken last night before retiring, the jury stood 11 to 1 for acquittal. This morning, the decision for a not guilty verdict came on the first ballot.

Soles stepped to liberty and into the arms of numerous friends. Pressed for a statement, he had nothing to say.

Thus came to an end the most dramatic murder trial in Allegheny county in several years with the mystery surrounding the secret Mrs. Soles took to her grave still unsolved.

RESCUERS HUNT MISSING PLANE NEAR SALT LAKE

passengers and crew increased as hour after hour passed and no word was heard from them.

Enroute To Cheyenne.

The plane was enroute from Salt Lake City to Cheyenne, Wyo., the ship apparently was not sighted after it left Salt Lake City. It was ordered to report its progress by radio 20 minutes after it left here, but the report was never received at Cheyenne, where radio operators awaited it.

The ship is a huge Boeing low-winged monoplane.

A report, unverified, was that the liner was seen over Emery, Utah, yesterday at 3 p. m. as it disappeared into a blizzard. A man whose name was not revealed was reported to have said the ship seemed to be in distress.

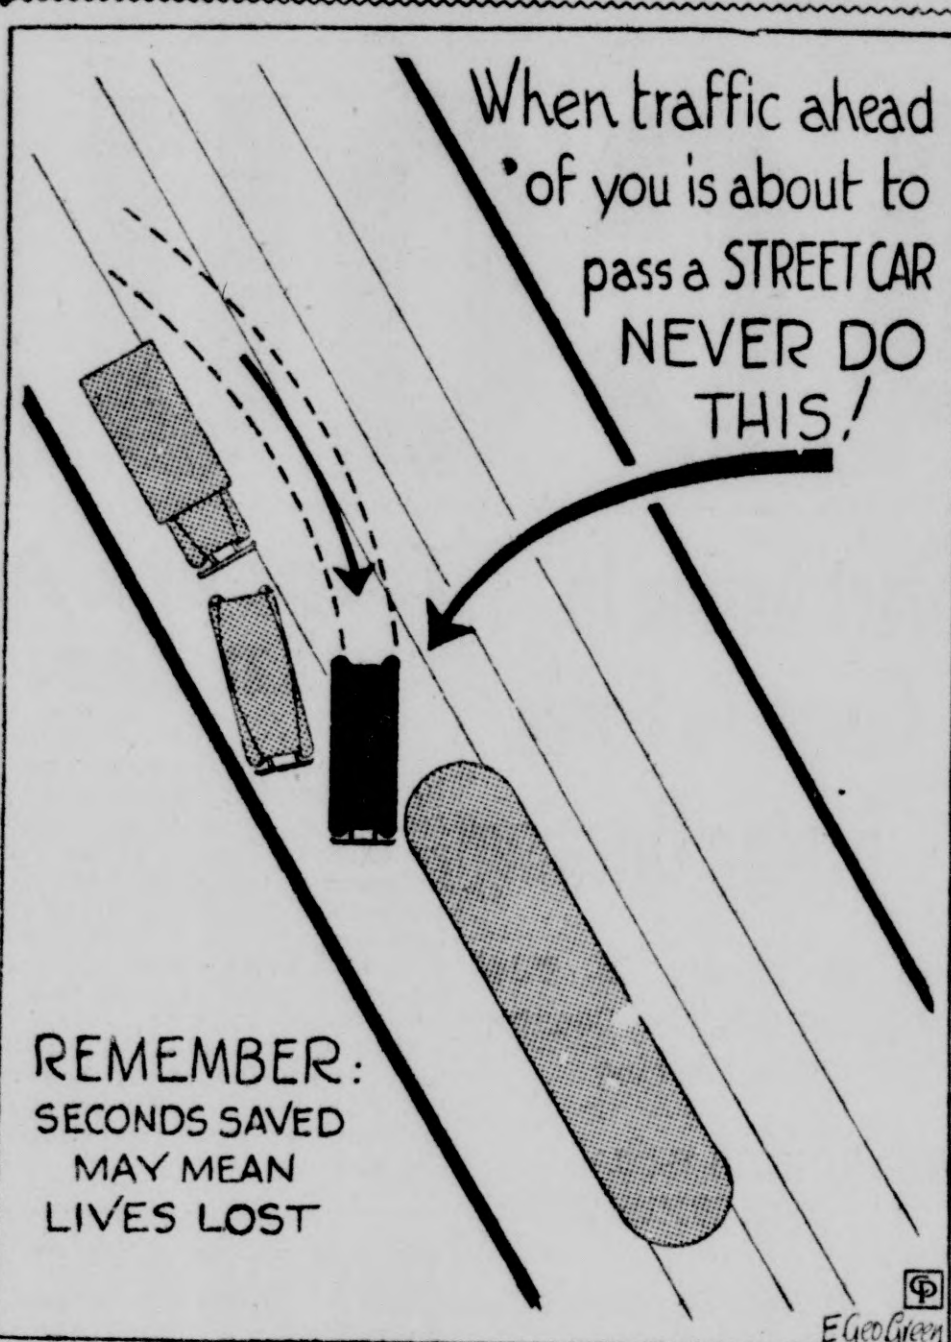

At 9 o'clock the weather over the Salt Lake-Cheyenne air route was reported growing worse. A heavy pea-soup fog prevailed that made the search by air for the missing plane and its human cargo almost futile.

All eastbound army airmail schedules were cancelled today.

The crew of the missing plane consisted of Pilots J. Danielson and Lloyd Anderson, and Stewardess Mary Carter.

The passenger list as announced by United Airlines here included: E. L. Walker of Rock Springs Wyo., J. Sterling of Benton Harbor, Mich., flying from Los Angeles to Chicago; Bert McLaughlin, Marcelus Zimmarer and W. B. Berland of Des Moines, Iowa, flying from Los Angeles to Des Moines.

RESTRICTIONS ON TWO BANKS WILL SOON BE LIFTED

port was sent to Harrisburg and the State Department of Banking gave both banks a clean bill of health.

On To Washington
In order to operate a guaranteed bank, that is, one in which all deposits up to $2500 per account are guaranteed by the Federal government, it is necessary to receive the approval of the Federal Depositors Insurance Corporation. To get this it is necessary that the results of the examination and the approval of the State Department of Banking be sent to Washington, D. C.

These approvals and reports are going forward from Harrisburg today, and should be received by the Washington authorities sometime Monday morning. The formal approval of the F. D. I. C. will then be a matter of two or three days it is felt and immediately upon approval from Washington both the Peoples Bank and the Bessemer State Bank are ready to open at a minutes notice.

The opening of the two banks will occasion no surprise as it has been generally known for some time that the institutions were sound and that it was merely a matter of reducing some of the assets to a greater state of liquidity. In neither bank was a depositor asked to buy any stock or make any sacrifices. In both cases, every deposit will carry interest at the usual rate from the time of the bank holiday, something not done by many of the banks which were closed by the President.

Deposit Guarantee
By becoming a member of the Federal Depositors Insurance Corporation, a federal corporation, every depositor in the Peoples Bank and the Bessemer State Bank who has less than $2500 on deposit has that deposit guaranteed. Under the guarantee provisions there is no possible chance of depreciation or loss as the Federal Government stands back of the money.

Formal announcement is expected of the bank openings within a few days, but until that time no statement can be obtained from the management of either bank.

Miss Margaret T. Stevens and Miss Olive Dennis, from the general office force of the B. and O. company in Baltimore, Maryland, spent Friday with employees of the B. and O. freight station here.

Mrs. Howard Geary was able to return to her residence on Wilmington avenue today after a month in the Jameson Memorial hospital following a serious operation. She is getting along quite nicely now.

Jack Treser, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. Stanley Treser of North Mercer street is home for a few days. He is affiliated with an orchestra in Winona, Minn., and in the past six months has toured the west and northwest states.

Manufacturing Company resumed operations a week ago, the Lehigh Portland Cement Company announced that it would resume around March 1, the American Can Company resumed operation about two weeks ago and the Blair Strip Steel Company announced a backlog of orders that will keep the plant running for some time.

The announcement of the tin mills is of especial importance inasmuch as the two plants are the largest industrial plants in the city. The reaction in the tills of merchants will be felt shortly and the sun will shine just a little brighter because of it.

SAYS F. D. R. BETTER THAN U. S. DESERVES

(International News Service)
PHILADELPHIA — "Today the American people have a leader better than our institutions deserve—and we ought to make the most of it," Dr. Arthur E. Morgan, chairman of the Tennessee Valley authority, declared in an address before the Ethical society here.

Dr. Morgan, an outstanding American engineer, characterized President Roosevelt as "a leader with vision, sincerity and persistence."

He added: "We wonder what the outcome of that leadership will be—whether we can have a new civilization with greater hope, for the average man, for fulfillment without exploitation and the predatory processes."

"Mother: 'How are you getting on with your golf lessons?'
Barbara: 'My dear, when that pro told me to address the ball, I actually couldn't think of a word to say.'"

Sunday School Teacher: "And now children, what is the last thing you do before you go to bed at night?"
Bright Girl: "Put the latchkey under the doormat for mother."

COMPETITION

COMPETITIVE building is not limited to navies. It is found in many fields of modern life, imposing upon the public in several of them financial burdens comparable with that of naval construction when world powers aspire at the same time to the biggest navy.

For years there has been going on throughout the United States a free-for-all race and many private races for the doubtful honor and advantages of being the larger city. Communities have forced their growth in population and area merely that their burghers might lord it over some rival town or city. Some of these rivalries between cities and towns have been written into history and come down through the generations as traditions.

Competition in skyscraper construction, between hotels for leadership in number of rooms, between ocean liners for speed and size, between railroads for speed and between corporations for highest capitalization is not for profit only.

Cities and towns build libraries, museums, are galleries, parks, public buildings, airports, convention halls, stadiums and indulge other desires because other cities and towns have them or because they want to be first in having them.

This desire to be bigger and better has been named "adult-infantilism," but while it often assumes childish proportions it is often a virtue. Were it not for this "adult-infantilism" many communities would be devoid of all the graces.

THE WEALTH OF WORDS

No language in history or in the present world is so rich as English. Its vocabulary has borrowed freely from every tongue and continues to do so with every extension of human thought. The vigorous progress of the English-speaking races throughout the world constantly compels new additions to its wealth of words, while the long tradition of English classic literature keeps older words in use and understanding. These are some of the reasons why the ordinary English dictionary contains at least 150,000 words and the monumental Oxford dictionary offers definitions for 600,000 separate words and usages of words.

There is an astounding contrast between these available resources of languages and the amount of it which serves the average man for his daily needs. The Bell telephone system, which deals almost exclusively in communications by the spoken word, has made studies which show that a mere handful of words is enough to keep its wires busy. There are 80,000,000 telephone conversations in the United States every day, but 50 words account for 60 per cent of what is actually said in them. A trifling total of 700 words provided 95 per cent of all telephone conversations.

This is interesting but not conclusive. Telephone talks are usually—though not always—brief and to the point. But the meagerness of the average vocabulary is confirmed by other evidence. Tests have shown that the ordinary high school graduate or college freshman has only about 1500 words at his tongue's end. The full-blown business man can master and command about 5000. He knows many others, but he rarely uses them.

The testimony of literature is to the same effect, though it is obvious that there are many words common in writing which are rarely heard in speech. Shakespeare wrote of many themes and all sorts and conditions of men and reached the heights of human reflection, speculation and imagination, yet 20,000 words were all he needed to accomplish his infinite variety. The English Bible, the unquestioned anchorage of good English, contains about 9000 different words. The ordinary fiction writer rarely uses more than 3000 of the 150,000 words which are at his elbow in the dictionary.

The other side of this story concerns a quality of the written or spoken word which is to some degree beyond the dictionary. The dictionary supplied definitions, but there must also be considered a word's connotations. These are as wide as all the experience which is associated with any given word. The simplest of words may mean a thousand things and usually does. This fact is the basis of a remarkable statement made and demonstrated some years ago by Prof. Lewis M. Terman of Stanford University, to the effect that the ability to give adequate definitions of five out of a selected list of 100 words indicates a working vocabulary of 13,500 words.

A HOME REMEDY

The trouble with this country is, economic mal-adjustment, due to enforced under-consumption. But some of the under-consumption is not enforced. It can be alleviated. There is, to a considerable extent, a simple home remedy.

Take the matter of dairy products. There is in this country a surplus of 100 million pounds of storage butter. Butter is milk, processed for the ultimate consumer. Kansas produces annually about 80 million pounds of butter. Almost the surplus of the nation.

One of our troubles is that Americans do not use enough milk in its various forms—milk, whey, cream, cheese and butter. It has been estimated that if each farm family would increase its use a half a pound each week the present surplus would disappear in three months. And butterfat prices would rise. A lot of farm families use oleo. If every dairy farmer could get only three families, including his own, to use an extra half glass of milk a day, the surplus would disappear in two months and a half. And the continued use of this extra half glass of milk would prevent the surplus from becoming a butter surplus.

One of the troubles of this butter business is lazy women, who won't cook. They get stuff out of cans. Home cooking, if it is good, requires the use of much milk, cream, cheese and butter. But if you buy your pies and cakes and cookies at the foundry, and pour your vegetables out of a can, and get your desserts from the store, or if women of the family are still lazier and gather father and the kids at mealtimes around the kitchen sink and open a sack of hamburgers or weenies, precious little milk do they consume. And they pay for it by lacking the vitamins which protect good health. The money lazy women give to doctors if given to the dairy farmers would make us all healthy and wealthy and wise.

Much of this under-consumption of American produce is inevitable. The clogged wheels of industry have caused it. But some of it—enough of it to make it worth while—comes from purely domestic causes. Let us say bad home habits. For instance, women who rush home at half past five and put their hands to their brows and say, "My Lord. What am I going to have for supper?" and end it up by dropped eggs, store ginger snaps and a can of peaches.

These old slackers are the cause of some of our grief.—Emporia Gazette.

WHAT IS "BENEATH YOUR DIGNITY?"

You hear people say, "I can't do that. It would be beneath my dignity."

But what do they mean when they use that phrase? What is a man's dignity? And what things are beneath it? Is dignity a manner? Is it a position in life? Is it where you stand or what you do?

As for me, I think of dignity as an inward state. No tilt of the chin. No arrogant squaring of the shoulders. No coldness of the eye. No expression of external power or position or money. . . . I think of it as character, as nobility of spirit, as strength of mind, as something that is born and grows and develops in the storm and stress of living. . . . Not something you put on as you do a coat of armor, or that you wear when you are before the crowd and take off when you are by yourself or in the heart of the home.

It may be serious, but it is not solemn. It may laugh and shout and rollick without abatement of its essential self. It may play the joyous fool and still be dignified. . . . You may find dignity in a tiny baby, in a tumbling puppy, in a spirited horse. An elephant may reach his enormous trunk to you and receive a peanut and still preserve his dignity. A lion may be caged and yet his dignity not be taken from him. A man may walk to the guillotine and lose his head and have it tumble in a basket and still possess all the dignity any man may have.

When we say "I can't do that because it would be beneath my dignity," nine times in ten we are not thinking of the deed itself, but of what people would think of us. And we are not dignified then—we are the slaves of other men's opinions.

We lose our dignity when we speak of it. It is a word that had better be left unspoken. It is a thought that should not come into our minds. . . . Dignity never mentions itself. It lives and that's enough.

FOR THAT "RAINY DAY"

Because you have never been able to make a large sum of money at one time, you have never given any serious attention to accumulating a bank account.

The idea of depositing a small sum each week and not disturbing it throughout the year does not appeal to you as a saving method.

Isn't it true that you have not wanted to adopt a plan which might make it necessary for you to deprive yourself of something in order to keep up the payments with regularity?

You want to feel free to spend according to the limits of your earnings.

And yet you complain that you have never had a bank deposit large enough to tide you over some unforeseen demand.

When such a drain has come, you have had to go in debt, facing a struggle to meet your obligations.

Of course there is worry and often discouragement.

Your present state of dependency may be the result of not having made any preparation for unexpected expenses.

As a sensible person you should realize that you cannot go on, year after year, without having unusual demands upon your resources.

Isn't it better to be prepared than have to meet them with future income?

Your Income Tax

No. 24

DEDUCTION FOR DEPRECIATION
The revenue act provides for "a reasonable allowance for the exhaustion, wear and tear of property used in the trade or business, including a reasonable allowance for obsolescence." For convenience, such allowance usually is referred to as depreciation.

In claiming a deduction for depreciation several fundamental principles must be observed. The deduction must be confined to property actually used in trade, business, profession, and to improvements on real property, other than property used by the taxpayer as his personal residence. In general, it applies to the taxpayer's capital assets—buildings, machinery, etc.—the cost of which cannot be deducted as a business expense.

A lawyer, doctor, or other professional man may not charge off as a current expense the cost of a library used wholly in his profession, this being a capital expenditure and the library a capital asset, but he may deduct an allowance for depreciation based upon the useful life of the library. If part of a professional man's residence is used by him for office purposes, a proportionate amount of the depreciation sustained may be deducted, based generally on the ratio of the number of rooms on the ratio of the total to the total used for such purposes to the total number of rooms in the building. The same principle applies if a taxpayer rents to others a portion of his residence. Under such conditions, however, the taxpayer must include in his gross income the rentals received.

Two weeks later the Senate organized as a high court of impeachment with Mr. Chief Justice Chase presiding, and after a trial that continued two months, voted 35 for conviction, 19 for acquittal. But two-thirds of the votes were necessary for conviction, and he missed by one vote being ignominiously removed from highest office in land.

Sunday

Historic Anniversaries—1601—Robert Devereux, Earl of Essex, aged 34, was executed by order of the 69-year-old woman who loved him: Queen Elizabeth. It would have been otherwise but for the treachery of the Countess of Nottingham, whose love Essex had rejected.

In the first bombing of their romance, the Queen had given Essex a ring with the promise that if ever he should lose her favor, he could win her forgiveness, for no matter what offense, by sending her the ring.

At the last moment before the executioner was to take his head for conspiracy against the crown he had been punished by the queen for insulting her and had turned against her, his pride gave way and he tossed the ring out of the window to the Countess of Nottingham to carry to the queen. The Countess delayed until Elizabeth, with trembling hands and woeful heart, had signed the death warrant and Essex's handsome head had rolled into the sand.

Eventually, however, it was adopted around the world, and in the winning of the west, Colts were judge and jury.

The World At A Glance

Veterans' Cause Still Popular
Senate Galleries Are Fire Traps
Senator Robinson on Top Again

By LESLIE EICHEL

Central Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, Feb. 24.—Veterans' compensation is not such a dead issue as one would imagine.

Senator Henry W. Hatfield, Republican, made a speech for an hour and a half in the senate the other day on veterans' compensation. Every senator except three walked out on him—and those three walked up a little on unfinished business.

The galleries, however, were crowded. One could hear mutterings of appreciation there.

Senator Hatfield is looked upon by the Democrats as merely a speech-maker to embarrass the administration.

His speeches are described as dull and bombastic. This particular speech seemed to confirm that allegation.

But when Senator Hatfield told of veterans being turned out of government hospitals because of the economy measure, while billions were being spent elsewhere, the galleries seemed very much with him.

DANGER

The public galleries of the senate always are crowded these days. If they should break out among the old wood partitions, the government would be guilty of loss of life. Few could escape.

CHANGED JOE

Senator Joseph T. Robinson of Arkansas is a revived leader.

Last year at this time he seemed owncast. He appeared to be only the nominal leader. Senator James Byrnes of South Carolina seemed to be the chief representative in the senate of President Roosevelt.

Senator Huey Long, too, was unflinchingly lambasting the big corporation lawyer from Little Rock.

Then, a few months ago, President Roosevelt not only reassured Senator Robinson, but pulled the rug from under Senator Long.

Now Robinson takes as much interest in progressive measures as he formerly took in what many persons term reactionary measures and he moves with complete assurance.

CROSSES STREET

By a coincidence the office of Franklin D. Roosevelt as president is just across West Executive avenue from what was the office of Franklin D. Roosevelt as assistant secretary of the navy.

RESTAURANTS

Quality of food in the senate and house restaurants has improved since the advent of the Roosevelt administration.

But, although the house restaurant now is earning money, the senate restaurant continues to lose. Many of the senators still eat meals on credit, one hears.

Historic Anniversaries—616 A. D.—

First Anglo-Saxon code, or written law was introduced by Ethelbert, king of Kent, then 60 years old. Before the time of this enlightened ruler he was first to allow Christianity to be brought to England, by St. Augustine, the common man had only such rights as his baron chose to give him.

1779—Col. George Rogers Clark, 27, sent Lieut. Gov. Henry Hamilton, commander of the fortified town of Vincennes a demand for his unconditional surrender, and got back a note saying:

At the 11 a. m. service, the pastor, Dr. J. A. Galbraith will preach a prophetic sermon on "Some Things Jesus Said Would Precede His Coming Again and the Return of the Jews to Palestine."

AROUND CITY HALL

The city council did not meet with the Fraternal Order of Police committee relative to a proposed pension fund as scheduled Friday due to the bridge controversy which monopolized most of council's session.

One of the things the city must guard against in building the wall along Neshannock creek is to not dump any stones or dirt inside the channel lines. If they do the state waterways board will get after them. A Neshannock avenue property owner complained to the board that such was being done on the Croton avenue side of the creek. She claimed this forced the water onto the properties in Neshannock avenue. Harry Hoskins, city engineer, told council that there had been some dumping but he had stopped it.

Purchasing Agent J. D. Alexander took bids for chlorine gas. All the bids were the same. He was given councilmanic authority to buy the gas from the firm he desired. The gas is used at the sewage disposal plant.

An ordinance was introduced before city council yesterday which amends the ordinance concerning the proposed Lincoln Avenue-Croton Avenue viaduct. The amendment, which will be passed, gives consent to the county to enter upon and appropriate the highway, street and property of the city, ordered for highway and bridge purposes. Solicitor White told council that before the bridge can be built the county must have the city's consent to take it over. The city will furnish the ground, the county will build the bridge, pave the cartway and also be liable for it, according to White.

Police chronology for past 24 hours, ending 3:30 p. m. February 23, five arrests, on charges as follows: violating parking ordinances; four, drunkenness and disorderly conduct 1.

Sometimes one imbibes too freely of intoxicants and makes a monkey of his self. At least a Pittsburgher did here. He imbibed copiously then thought he would jest with police. He called innumerable times from a telephone booth, each time inviting "em to "C'mon get me. I'm drunk." Finally police found patience no longer to be a virtue. They checked back. Police Matron Minnie McKibben engaged the chap in a talk-fest, Sergeant Syling had the Hello girl give him the location of the booth where the young man was phoning. He was laughing, likewise some others who were outside the booth listening to him, when suddenly Lieutenant Ralph Griswold, the telephone booth door and took the chap by the collar and carted him off to jail. No, the man wasn't peevish. He was happy. He imagined according to his actions that he was a monkey. He climbed all over the cell and topped the performance off by climbing up and down the bars. But was his face red when he faced Mayor Mayne in police court? He paid a $10 fine for making a monkey of himself.

CHURCH NEWS

Members of the Italian Christian Church held their Wednesday night services in the Christian church on Crawford avenue. Joe Massaro had charge of the service, with Mrs. Harry Sarbo at the piano. Frank Fortunate delivered the sermon. Jno. Sarbo had charge of the music, and a solo was sung by Henry Ludorici all from New Castle. Quite a large crowd was present. They expect to have services Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday evenings of next week with Frank Maruso doing the preaching.

On Court House Hill

In connection with the trouble over the closing of the West Washington street bridge, county commissioners this morning stated that if it becomes necessary to build a new bridge the cost will be enormous, as the bridge cannot be built at its present level, but would have to be raised sufficiently to allow ships to pass in case a canal is built. This would mean a long viaduct, extending almost to the diamond, with the resultant damage to property on both sides of the street. The county would be compelled to take care of the damages.

It has been suggested that the cement abutments at each end of the center be removed and that the center be floored to permit traffic. Signs could be posted showing the weight that would be allowed on the bridge. The bridge stood the traffic before it was repaired and is argued that it ought to be stronger now. It is also contended by some that it would be better to spend whatever additional amount is necessary to strengthen the bridge through the center.

Former Sheriff Calvin Boyd of Princeton was visitor at the court house yesterday. Mr. Boyd has leased several tracts of land for oil and gas, and along with many others in the Slippery Rock township sector, is taking a keen interest in the oil well which is now being drilled.

It is said that letters of administration will shortly be taken out on the William G. Dunn estate. It was believed that Mr. Dunn had a will but diligent efforts to find it have so far proved fruitless. It is said that if letters were taken out and the will should later be discovered, it could still be probated. Mr. Dunn is understood to have left quite an extensive estate.

Announcement that testimony on the proposed Croton viaduct before the grand jury on March 7 came as somewhat of a surprise to many who were under the impression that it would simply be left to the grand jury to act on their own volition. A hearing means that both those who favor and those who are opposed to the viaduct will be given an opportunity to present their views.

There will be no difficulty in getting an array of witnesses on the Croton end who will favor the proposition, but it will not be so easy on the Lincoln avenue side, as many of the residents there are said to be opposed to it. Aside from those who will be directly benefited, it is likely that there will be testimony offered by persons who reside in other sections of the city and in the country, who are interested mainly in the cost of the improvement to the taxpayers.

A writ in attachment has been issued at the prothonotary's office by the People's Savings and Trust Company against Charles Freeman, in which the sheriff is directed to attach any debts or dividends that may be due the defendant from the Union Trust Company. A second writ is issued by the Peoples Savings and Trust Company against Charles Freeman and Speer Marousis, to attach any money belonging to them and held by the Union Trust Company.

Judges Hildebrand and Chambers will hold a session of court on next Monday morning for the purpose of hearing any motions or petitions which attorneys have to present. The next regular session of court will be the March term, beginning on Monday, March 5, when the grand jury will convene. The principal case to come before the grand jury will be that of the commonwealth against John Mozesz, who is charged with the murder of Rose Balogh.

The county now has quite an arsenal, consisting of twenty-six sawed off shot guns, a tear gas gun, tear bombs and a lot of other paraphernalia that will come in handy in case bandit raids or other disturbances.

CWA workers from Ellwood City who have been securing descriptions of properties at the register and recorder's office, in preparation for the installation of a registry system, are again back on the job after a brief intermission. The greater part of the data necessary has now been compiled.

ington spent the week end with his uncle Clyde Bowen.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Bowen returned home on Sunday, after spending the week at the home of their daughter Mrs. D. B. Cosgrove of Wampum.

Mr. and Mrs. D. L. Heckathorne and son Elmer of this place, and Jesse Heckathorne and daughter Irma of No. 8 attended the wedding of the former's grand-daughter Marie Heckathorne and Paul Gilbert, which took place in St. John's Lutheran church at New Castle on Saturday.

New Contract To Be Signed For $768,000

County Commissioners Secure Change In Plan For Courthouse Funds

CHANGES PERTAIN TO FUND GRANT

Will Be On Practically The Same Basis As Original Proposition

County Commissioners' Attorney John P. Lockhart has received a letter from Charles C. McCall, chief counsel for the public works bodies at Washington, in which it is stated that a request for modification of the contract sent the county commissioners in connection with funds for a new courthouse has been granted.

According to the changes, the county will be able to get the money for a new courthouse on practically the same terms as originally proposed. The letter is in response to an application of the commissioners for the change.

The provisions of the new contract, which the public works administration is now willing to make with the county commissioners are substantially as follows: The county is to issue bonds to the amount of $768,000, the estimated total cost of a new courthouse, with the exception of the land, which the county is to provide.

The letter says that the financial statement shows that during the years 1934 and 1935 the burden of bond maturities is at its peak, $172,000 of the outstanding bonds maturing in 1935 and $176,000 in 1935.

It is suggested that the proposed bonds mature in substantially equal installments of approximately $38,000 annually, and that the grant, which is the difference between $580,000 and $768,000, be applied in the payment of both principal and interest during the years 1934 and 1935.

In 1936 bonds of Lawrence county which are already outstanding will mature in the amount of approximately $157,000. This is $17,000 less than the average of the maturities for the two prior years. It is suggested that instead of decreasing the tax levy in 1936 the county continue its levy at the present rate and apply the additional $17,000 toward the payment of interest.

The government grant will be applied to the balance of interest due and to the installment of principal which matures in 1936.

In 1937 $132,000 of the outstanding bonds will mature. This is $42,000 less than the peak amount for 1934 and 1935, and it is suggested that the county apply the $42,000 toward the payment of all of the interest and so much of the principal maturing in that year as it will cover. The government grant will be applied to the balance of the principal due in 1937.

Beginning the year 1938 the outstanding bonds maturing decreases rapidly, and from 1938 on the county should be able to meet the entire payment of principal and interest. Therefore any balance of grant due the county will be applied toward the cancellation of bonds of the last maturities.

You will present the foregoing suggestions at the next meeting of the county commissioners, which should be held as promptly as possible, and notify the public works administration whether or not they are acceptable.

As soon as word is received from you we will proceed with the drafting of the contract on the above basis. The county may disregard the provisions of the loan and grant agreement which has already been forwarded to the county commissioners.

The county commissioners have expressed themselves as well satisfied with the provisions to be contained in the letter to Mr. Lockhart and will meet for passage of the resolution requested during the earlier part of next week.

Cannot Limit Profits Made On Airplanes

Unable To Limit Manufacturers To 10 Per Cent Profit On Planes And Engines

(International News Service) WASHINGTON, Feb. 24.—Profits of manufacturers selling airplanes and engines to the navy department cannot be limited to 10 percent, former secretary of the navy Charles Francis Adams today declared before a house naval affairs subcommittee. The committee had summoned to testify on profits made by the firms which had sold aircraft and equipment to the navy during his administration.

"Due to various conditions that enter into construction of airplanes and engines I do not see how it is possible to place a 10 per cent limitation of the profits of the manufacturers," Adams said.

"Some of the smaller companies are burdened with higher overheads and this is reflected in the price paid by the government," Adams vigorously denied that he owned stock of any company which did business with the navy department while he was serving as secretary.

Cancellation Of Mail Contracts Not Justified

(International News Service) WASHINGTON, Feb. 24.—Postmaster General Farley's cancellation of airmail contracts was unjustified, Rep. Clyde Kelly (R) of Pennsylvania, declared in the house today, in opening debate on the administration's emergency airmail bill.

The evidence submitted by Farley to the house post office committee, he asserted, clearly showed that "the post office department didn't know just what was in the law."

The bill before the house authorized the post office department to transfer funds to the army to meet expenses of the airmail. Kelly said he would support the bill because "we are facing a fact."

"Under the power the postmaster general had, he cancelled the contracts of operators who built up the greatest airmail service the world ever saw," said Kelly. "We have been carrying more mail than all the rest of the world."

He said the house post office committee rejected the proposal of the post office department to give it authority to make temporary contracts without competitive bidding, because it would be inconsistent for the postmaster general to cancel contracts on the ground that competitive bidding was flouted, and then do the same thing.

To File Appeal From Report Of Mercer Auditor

(Special To The News) MERCER, Pa., Feb. 24.—Eleven prominent citizens of Sharon, including city officials and County Auditor Paul Quimby, today notified the county commissioners that they would file an appeal to the report of the county auditors for 1933 when that report was filed. In the appeal they expected to ask a surcharge of $318 against Auditor John H. Barnes and $396 against Auditor James Gamble.

Back of the appeal there is a history of a case in the Mercer county court in which Auditors Gamble and Barnes instructed the county commissioners not to pay Auditor Quimby $38 for six days work and expenses, the action alleging that he did not work the six days in January, 1934. At the hearing it developed that the two auditors expected to surcharge Quimby $490 for salary in 1933 on the grounds that he did not work the days represented by this amount.

Scouts' Project Is Making Fine Headway With Citizens' Help

Responding to an appeal for co-operation made early in the week, Lawrence county residents today had made and were making abundant donations of household furnishings, bedding and clothing to Boy Scout visitors now engaged in a county-wide canvass.

Scout Executive H. G. Horton said that all the thanks in the world are due the residents for their willingness to work with the scout troops in the project they started as an answer to President Roosevelt's radio challenge.

Throughout America other scouts are doing something like this as their part in what the president referred to as a "national good turn". All of the undertakings are concerned with the aid of the needy.

Mr. Horton said that in New Castle and other towns the collection will continue next week. If it takes until the end of February to visit all the homes, the project will be extended that long.

All contributions are being turned over to the Lawrence County Emergency Relief board for distribution.

Newspapers Have Aided Nation In Recovery Battle

Crusading Journalism Is Highly Praised By Marlen E. Pew, Noted Editor

(International News Service) ATHENS, Ga., Feb. 24.—Crusading journalism was lauded today by Marlen E. Pew, editor of Editor and Publisher, in a speech before the Georgia press institute at the University of Georgia.

Declaring that many newspapers have been made to appear to the public as "mere commercial machines" because their publishers regard crusading as outdated, Pew declared:

"I wish I had time to tell you what the spirit and fact of newspaper crusading has done for the people of this land—

"In the past five years, newspapers have achieved notable victories for their readers in many cities. Hundreds of banks that would have gone to the wall on a basis of disinterested, neutral journalism, were saved, with the economic safety of millions of depositors, by intelligent newspaper action."

"Scores of cities have been rescued from political hog-troughs, led out by newspapers speaking with force and conviction."

SYMPATHY

The only language a funeral bouquet expresses is the language of sympathy. It is an old custom, and a kindly one, that of sending flowers to voice your sympathy at the loss of a friend. Hence, the matter of design is an important matter. Just flowers won't do, they should be made into an artistic bouquet that carries the sentiment of the occasion. Next time you need flowers for such an occasion, may we be permitted to show you what can be done?

Truck Driver Takes Flare Case To Court

A New Castle district truck driver, arrested by the state highway patrol for not carrying a supply of flares on his truck as required by law, plans to take his case into the local court to fight.

Hiram Zehner refused to pay the established fine this week to Justice of the Peace John T. Brinton, East New Castle, but posted $75 for his appearance at the March court.

He was arrested by State Highway Patrolman H. F. Cunningham. Justice Brinton pointed out that a state law enacted last fall provides that drivers of trucks must carry flares for use in emergencies at night, and he reported that a number of drivers have been brought before him on the charge. They have either paid fines or gone to jail. He said Zehner was the first to waive for court.

New Castle Piles Up Lead In First Half And Then Coasts

Reiber And Komic High-Point Men In Game; Biggest Crowd Of Year

Playing a whirlwind game the first half and then seemingly to coast the last half, New Castle High School basketball team, Section Three champions handed Butler High a 29 to 21 defeat Friday night at the George Washington Junior High floor in the last game on the regular 1934 schedule. The biggest crowd of the year estimated at over 1,000 fans packed the gym for the two basketball games and the special features. Captain Lester "Bus" Reiber was high scorer again last night with nine of the New Castle points. Reiber was followed by Walter Komic with six points and by Joe Negro and Joe Kelly with five points each. Ostrosky kicked in with four points and that was the extent of the scoring for the New Castle team. Coach Phil Eidenbaugh shifted his lineup somewhat at the start of the game, sending Miles to center and Negro to forward in place of Kelly.

The game started out like one of those walkaways with New Castle going into a 13 to 8 lead in the first period, on field goals by Negro, Reiber, Ostrosky and Komic. Butler's eight points were made by Shuber, Kradel and Huselton.

22 To 10 At Half
New Castle continued their rapid-fire attack in the second period and soon piled up a commanding lead of 22 to 10 as the half ended. Butler was held scoreless from the field in the second period, while Reiber caged two field goals for the locals and Ostrosky kicked in with a field goal and Negro and Komic shot fouls.

Something snapped within the New Castle team at the start of the second half, they didn't look like the same team that had piled in 22 points the first half. The third period found New Castle High making only three points, the worst exhibition of the season. They could not count field goals, having many shots, but failed to register any of them with the exception of Komic who made the lone goal and Kelly who started the third quarter in place of Miles made a foul. Butler on the other hand was not any better, making but three points also on three fouls and no field goals. It was a defensive game pure and simple.

Butler Rallies
In the fourth and final period New Castle held a lead of 25 to 13 at the start of play. Butler came to life with a start and left New Castle at the post. Butler scored eight points and gave New Castle but four points, and if the game had gone much longer things might have been different for the champions, as Butler was racing right along like a forest fire and making point after point, not from the field, but from the foul line. Butler only had one field goal the fourth period, that was by Webster.

Butler High gave a great exhibition of foul tossing last night making 13 out of 15 which is something to be proud of, and especially on a strange floor, New Castle on the other hand dropped in 7 out of 11.

Locals Off Color
New Castle will have to play a lot better basketball against Union High than they did last night, that much is a certainty. The New Castle team lacked enthusiasm, maybe it was due to the fact that the Section title was already in the "bag," and then again maybe it was something else. Had Butler been up to snuff, the locals would have been on the wrong end of the score. Coach Eidenbaugh used Kelly, Hitchens, Tuscano and Fleming as subs in the game. Coach

Regis Heinzer of Butler used but one sub, sending in Collins to replace Huselton.

New Castle Reserves Win
The New Castle High School Reserves played a fine brand of basketball to defeat the Butler High Reserves 32 to 16 in the preliminary game, with Harry "Kaiser" Tuscano, Nahas and Al Mumford doing the best work. At the half the Reserves led 17 to 7. Butler didn't put up much of a battle.

The New Castle Reserves have not bowed to a Section Three Reserve team in two years of playing. Which is a fine record.

Special Features Enjoyed
Between halves of the New Castle Reserves-Butler Reserve game, the girls of Senior High put on a drill with wooden clubs that gained a lot of applause and praise from the fans. The girls were directed by Miss "Sal" McGoun. There were about 40 or 50 girls in the drill. The girls know how to swing clubs all right. There wasn't a flaw anywhere, and they were timed to perfection, which speaks well for Miss McGoun and the hours that the girls practiced on the drills.

Recognition Night
It was "Recognition Night" for the New Castle High team, and the fans and students of New Castle High and the Junior High Schools responded very nicely. The gym was said before was packed to the doors. There was a lot more school spirit at the game. It should be continued. The New Castle-Union game in the W. P. I. A. L. eliminations next Friday night should attract an even bigger crowd and should be the means of arousing the student body of Senior High to getting out at least 500 students. Union is expected to send close to 1,000 fans and students to the game. New Castle should double that number.

Gene Tunney Picks Carnera

Former Champion Thinks Italian Heavy Will Defend Title Successfully

By DAVIS J. WALSH
International News Service Sports Editor
MIAMI, Fla., Feb. 24.—After reading a few outbursts on the subject during the last twenty-four hours, I'm beginning to believe that there must be at least three Gene Tunneys in town and that I haven't found the other two yet. Anyhow, I encountered the third today, and instead of saying that he was completely unnerved and baffled by the Carnera-Loughran situation, as I seemed to read in one version, or that he looked for a very stirring engagement, as I saw by another, he said that Carnera practically couldn't miss.

Mister Tunney, who had himself withdrawn from circulation while still heavyweight champion and is now leading a life of ease and retirement, was one of the witnesses at Loughran's quarter-final workout for the title fight here on Wednesday. He said everything was just splendid, in fact, everything was superb, no end.

Oh, yes, Loughran looked quite good. Sterling fellow, Loughran, oh yes, he had a chance. Everybody has a chance, Loughran, it seemed, might win the encounter, although there were two things against it. The other said he was a man named Carnera.

Bessemer High Stops Union By Score Of 24-13

Halts Union's Winning Streak Of 13 Victories; Title Race Tightens

MARSHALL AND DeARMENT STAR

Bessemer high school basketball team is not out of the running for the county class "A" championship this year. Last night they clearly demonstrated before a packed Bessemer high crowd that they have the goods by stopping Union high school quintet 24 to 13. Union had won 13 straight up until they hit Bessemer. Marshall and DeArment had 10 points apiece to take scoring honors in the game. Union high needed a victory last night to just about clinch the county title, but as it stands now both Bessemer and New Wilmington have a chance to overtake Union, or at the outset cause a three-way tie for the championship.

The strain of 13 straight victories told on the Union high players. Union lacked the snap and dash that they displayed against Mars the other evening, nor was it the same Union team that took an overtime game from Bessemer at the Union high floor earlier in the year. The end of the first period found Bessemer leading 6 to 4. At the end of the first half it was 13 to 9, and at the end of the third period the score was 18 to 11.

Union Stopped.
In the fourth and final period the Bessemer team held Union to two points and scored six themselves to make it 24 to 13. Union never threatened after the first half. Only four points was all that Union could get in the second half. The Boydmens tried hard, but just didn't have the stuff to overtake Bessemer.

The Frederick coached team played a fine brand of basketball all the way, with Marshall and DeArment unstoppable.

In foul tossing the Bessemer team dropped in 4 out of 14, and Union made 7 out of 14.

The preliminary game between Bessemer and Union high girls teams ended in a 11-11 deadlock.
